MESSAGE FROM MUSEUM DIRECTOR

Dear Members and Friends:

I am happy to report that since the last issue of Members' Update we had a successful summer with Summer Camp, Archaeology Family Day, two classes, and several movie nights. An Ageless Craft: Historic and Modern Pueblo Pottery continues to draw visitors from all over the region. We have received many compliments on this, the largest exhibit undertaken by the Museum to date. We also organized and installed a non-circulating research library, which staff, docents, and interns will benefit from as we prepare for tours, exhibits, and other programs. We thank the El Paso Archaeological Society for donating their books to this library.

We welcomed 22,200 visitors to the Museum during the past fiscal year (September 2018 - August 2019), a respectable turnout considering we were closed for the construction of upgrades from September 8 - November 16, 2018. Raised revenues increased by 8% over the prior fiscal year, which included memberships, donations, event fees, and store sales.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the City of El Paso's Museums and Cultural Affairs Department, El Paso Archaeological Society, and the Council of Texas Archeologists for supporting the recent 21st Biennial Jornada Mogollon Archaeological Conference in October. The presentations covered a wide range of topics and were very informative. The conference is important not only because it contributes to our understanding of the Jornada Mogollon region, but because it also keeps the Museum active and vibrant as an educational institution. We were pleased to see a record attendance of 91 people this year with 15 presenters! An anonymous donor also provided registration scholarships for members of Native American communities, for which we are grateful.

Over the coming months, visitors will enjoy new and improved exhibits in the North Gallery including exhibits on Chacoan outliers and the photography of Wayne Suggs. We also look forward to the many lectures, camps, classes, programs and events that are scheduled. Please refer to the inside of this issue for further details.

In closing, let me take this opportunity to thank each of you for your ongoing support through donations and volunteer service. We wish you and your loved ones a blessed and joyful Holiday Season!

Sincerely,

Jeff Romney
Director, El Paso Museum of Archaeology

MESSAGE FROM DEPUTY CITY MANAGER, QUALITY OF LIFE

Dear Members:

There are many exciting developments happening within the Museums and Cultural Affairs Department and the City of El Paso. As a City, we have an increased focus on quality of life and quality of place. To better align City Departments that promote these principles, I have been appointed Deputy City Manager, Quality of Life. The appointment will result in the creation of more synergy in our Quality of Life Departments that include MCAD, Libraries, Tourism, Parks and Recreation and the Zoo. I look forward to continuing great work for our community.

I am pleased to share with you that the Museums and Cultural Affairs (MCAD) team continues to see tremendous success across our programs and sites. Attendance records were again broken as we welcomed 48,000 people to Chalk the Block in October and celebrated our border culture and heritage at a Día de los Muertos event that encompassed the entire Downtown Arts District, which was enjoyed by 17,000 visitors.

Please join me in congratulating the El Paso Museum of Archaeology (EPMArch) staff on their efforts over the past six months. The Museum continued to engage the community with new exhibits focused on Salado pottery, modern Pueblo pottery, and Latin American masks! EPMArch's Archaeology Family Day saw record-breaking attendance of 650 people in just the first two hours of the event last August. The Museum also expanded its hours of operation on Thursday nights during the summer months, providing greater access and programming to the community. The recent 21st Biennial Jornada Mogollon Conference brought professionals and enthusiasts from around the Southwest to El Paso. We cannot help but feel increased pride and appreciation for our region's pre-Columbian heritage as we gain greater insight through continued archaeological research.

On behalf of MCAD, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to you for your continuing support as the Museum moves forward to even greater heights! I wish you all a wonderful holiday season and the very best for a great new year!

Best regards,

Tracey Jerome, MS, MA

CURRENT EXHIBITIONS

An Ageless Craft: Historic and Modern Pueblo Pottery

Through January 11, 2020

George Maloof, EPMArch Curator

For hundreds of years the peoples of the Rio Grande Valley made breathtaking pottery that was used for domestic as well as ceremonial purposes. Through the passage of time, generations of masters have continued to practice their arts, continuing to create stunning pieces that have merged centuries of traditions with modern artistic sensibilities. Although they are geographically close together and share many cultural similarities, each pueblo has developed its own style that is unique to them.

An Ageless Craft displays the work of potters from most of the Rio Grande and Western Pueblos including Maria Martinez, of San Ildefonso, the Nampeyo family of First Mesa (Hopi), and Albert Alvidrez of Ysleta del Sur. This is a not to miss opportunity to experience the continuation of age-old pueblo traditions through over three hundred beautiful works of art from the Museum's permanent collection, El Paso Archaeological Society's collection, and items on loan from the private collection of Albert Alvidrez.

Enchanted Faces: Latin American Mask Traditions

Through February 8, 2020

The use of masks is a very ancient human practice that dates back thousands of years. Evidence of mask use in Latin America predates the arrival of Europeans with examples having been identified in Mesoamerica as well as in the Andes and North America. Following European conquest and the repression of the native cultures, pre-Columbian traditions began to merge with Christian rituals, a process that made the use of masks much more commonplace. Today from Mexico's Día de los Muertos to Costa Rica's giant Mascaradas, masks play a role in many festivals, both sacred and secular, throughout Latin America.

Join us in an exploration of Latin American Masks and how they are used throughout the continent.

The Museum will like to thank Marshall Carter-Tripp and Richard Tripp for lending their masks for this exhibit.

UPCOMING EXHIBITIONS

From the Edge of Center: The Chacoan Outliers

January 25 - June 27, 2020

Aztec Ruins National Monument
Ancestral Puebloan (AD 1100 - 1300)

The Chacoan Culture flourished between AD 860-1150 and was originally centered at Chaco Canyon in Northwestern New Mexico. The Chacoans built immense great houses and great kivas capable of hosting large groups of peoples for ceremonies and other public activities.

While Chacoan Culture was centered within the canyon, its influence extended much further out. Throughout the San Juan Basin to the north as well as far south as the Zuni Mountains, there can be found outlying great houses that share many of the same features as those in Chaco Canyon, although generally on a smaller scale. Outlying great houses and great kivas have been found at Aztec Ruin and Salmon Ruin, both dating to the mid-12th and early 13th centuries, which show clear evidence of not only the spread of the Chacoan system, but also the continuation of Chacoan traditions beyond the decline of the Chacoan Heartland after AD 1150.

The El Paso Museum of Archaeology is proud to present this exhibition in cooperation with the National Parks Service and the San Juan County Museum Association.

Ancient Visions: The Photography of Wayne Suggs

February 15 - July 25, 2020

Moonset on the Past (2017)
© Wayne Suggs

The Southwest is filled with the imagery and remnants of the ancient peoples who have lived here for untold generations. These beautiful places have the power to rouse the imagination and evoke grand visions of the past in both local people and visitors alike.

Wayne Suggs is a photographer from Las Cruces, New Mexico, who specializes in taking spectacular landscape and night-time photographs. Wayne captures the spectacular beauty of the landscape and shares his images not only for others to enjoy, but to help raise awareness of the need to preserve the natural beauty of the Southwest. The El Paso Museum of Archaeology is pleased to present his work focused on many of the prehistoric sites and rock art panels throughout Southern New Mexico and the Southwest.

PAST EVENTS

Archaeology Summer Camp 2019

The Museum held four Summer Camps from June 4-28, 2019. In all, thirty participants enjoyed learning about archaeology and the prehistory of our region through field surveys, mock excavations, examining artifacts, films, and exploring the galleries. Students also learned about the plants and animals of the Chihuahuan Desert and how these resources were used by Native peoples. Children also had the opportunity to learn archery skills. Finally, children were given the opportunity of visiting Hueco Tanks State Park for a guided tour to see pictographs and other artifacts. The Museum would like to thank Alex Mares and John Miller for conducting the tours at the Park.

Summer Art Workshops

Students enjoyed two popular workshops in July 2019 led by artist Maria Almeida Natividad, which focused on metal embossing (Repujado) and bark paper painting (Amate). In all, twenty participants created beautiful works of Mexican Folk Art to take home.

Public Open House

The Museum hosted its first Public Open House event on Thursday, July 18 where 40 guests enjoyed refreshments, short films, hands-on activities, and behind-the-scenes tours. Participants also got to see and handle artifacts in the lab.

Archaeology Family Day

On August 3, 2019, the Museum hosted an Archaeology Family Day. Guests enjoyed films, archery, hands-on activities, crafts, mock excavations, learning about ancient artifacts, and Tigua bread and chile sampling. The Museum closed early before the event was scheduled to end due to the tragic mass shooting at Walmart. In all, 650 people attended this Family Day.

21ST BIENNIAL JORNADA MOGOLLON ARCHAEOLOGY CONFERENCE

The Museum hosted the 21st Biennial Jornada Mogollon Archaeology Conference on October 11-12, 2019, sponsored by the Museums and Cultural Affairs Department, El Paso Archaeological Society and the Council of Texas Archeologists. Ninety-one professional archaeologists, amateur archaeologists, professors and students from four states and two nations attended this year's conference, representing the highest attendance of the past four gatherings. Fifteen papers were presented at this year's conference. The Museum would like to thank an anonymous donor for sponsoring registrations for members of Native American communities.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Native American Storytelling

The Museum is pleased to host a Native American storytelling event on Saturday, November 30, 2019 from 5:00 PM - 7:30 PM with Mr. Alex Mares who will share Coyote and other stories from his cultural background, which includes Diné, Pueblo, Jicotec and Spanish. These types of stories are traditionally shared in winter by Navajo, Pueblo and Apache tribes. This free event will be outdoors around a campfire so please dress warmly and bring a folding chair or a camp stool. Complimentary hot chocolate will be served.

Mexican Folk Art-Metal Embossing/Repujado Workshop

Back by popular demand! Please join us on December 7 from 2:00 - 4:00 PM for a metal embossing (Repujado) workshop with artist Maria Almeida Natividad for ages 18+. Repujado is a traditional Mexican Folk Art, where thin metal sheets are designed, and then pressed with a three-dimensional effect. Pre-registration is required. $25 per person for Museum Members (Family Level and up) and $40 for non-members. All required materials will be provided. Please contact Museum Membership and Outreach Coordinator, Itzel Barraza, at (915) 212-3273 or by email at BarrazaIM@elpasotexas.gov to register or for more information.

Pottery Workshop with Albert Alvidrez (Tigua)

Please join us for a pottery workshop on January 4, 2020 from 1:00 – 5:00 PM with Albert Alvidrez, potter and former Governor of Ysleta del Sur Pueblo for ages 16+. Students will receive clay to make their own pot using the coil method. The instructor will have pre-made/pre-fired items that students can select from to paint and then take home. Pre-registration is required. $25 for members and $40 for non-members. Supplies are included. Class is limited to 20 participants. Please call (915) 212-3273 to register or for more information.

Members' Only Sale!

Members will receive an extra 10% off regular priced merchandise in the Museum Store (for a total of 30% off) during the month of December.

POPPIES FESTIVAL 2020

The El Paso Museum of Archaeology, National Border Patrol Museum, and Downtown Artist and Farmers Market will host the 14th Annual Poppies Festival on Saturday, March 21, 2020 from 10:00 AM – 4:00 PM at the Museum. Come and celebrate the annual Mexican Gold Poppies bloom! The festival will feature local vendors, food trucks, live performances, hands-on activities for kids, archery, pet adoptions, and more. Admission is free. Public parking will be available at El Paso Community College (Transmountain Campus) with free bus shuttle service to and from the Museum. No public parking will be permitted at the Museum. Further details and vendor applications will post on the Museum's website in late January.
