Fall 2017 Members' Update

MESSAGE FROM MUSEUM DIRECTOR

Tourist Trade comes to Isleta Pueblo*

Dear Members and Friends:

Fall has always been my favorite time of year. With it comes cooler temperatures, pumpkin spice everything and preparations for a host of holidays and celebrations! We have much to be thankful for this season at the Museum!

During the past fiscal year (September 2016 – August 2017), I am happy to report that we welcomed 26,704 visitors to the Museum, an increase of 3,000 people over the year before. Thanks to you memberships also increased by 68%! We depend on memberships, grants, and other donations to keep our doors open free of charge to the public. Donations also support our exhibitions and educational programs.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the City of El Paso's Museums and Cultural Affairs Department, El Paso Archaeological Society, and the El Paso County Historical Commission for supporting the recent 20th Biennial Jornada Mogollon Archaeology Conference. The presentations covered a wide range of topics and were very informative. The conference is important not only because it contributes to our understanding of the Jornada Mogollon region, but because it also keeps the Museum active and vibrant as an educational institution. I was pleased to see 90 people in attendance this year with 28 presenters!

Perhaps of greatest importance is that the Museum celebrated its 40th Anniversary this October! Over the course of the past four decades, this institution has inspired countless people and moved many to a greater understanding of American Indian cultures and traditions. We owe a debt of gratitude to all of our members, friends, support organizations, volunteers, docents, and community leaders who helped us reach this milestone.

Over the coming months, visitors will enjoy changes inside the Museum including new and improved exhibits and upgrades to our restroom facilities. We also look forward to the many lectures, camps, classes, programs and events that are scheduled. Please visit us soon and often!

Sincerely,

Jeff Romney
Director, El Paso Museum of Archaeology

Celebrating 40 Years of Service!

MESSAGE FROM MCAD DIRECTOR

Dear Members:

Please join me in wishing the El Paso Museum of Archaeology (EPMArch) a very happy 40th Birthday! EPMArch first opened its doors on October 12th, 1977 during the administration of Mayor Don Henderson. Over the past four decades, the Museum has provided exhibitions, educational programs, tours, special events, festivals and conferences to the El Paso community. An estimated 1,200,000 visitors have visited the Museum and Wilderness Park since it opened. Museum attendance continues to grow-the Museum has welcomed 26,700 visitors and guests this year!

Today the Museum cares for 4,500 objects in its permanent collection, over 600 of which are on display at any given time. EPMArch also proudly holds one of the largest collections of Casas Grandes ceramics in the Southwest.

Tours and educational programs are provided for over 3,000 schoolchildren each year who learn about 12,000 years of prehistory in the El Paso region and gain a greater appreciation for indigenous cultures and traditions.

EPMArch concluded the 20th Biennial Jornada Mogollon Archaeology Conference on October 14th, with 28 presenters, three of which were from Escuela de Antropología e Historia del Norte de México (EAHNM), who participated for the very first time. Conference attendance this year was the highest the Museum has hosted over the past three conference meetings. We are pleased that the Museum has a long history of offering these opportunities for academic collaboration and enrichment.

Please join us for events in November in honor of Native American Heritage Month including the opening of Railroad Era Pottery: The Tourist Trade Comes to Isleta Pueblo and Mis Pensamientos: Visions on Canvas – The Art of Maria Ibarra, a Rarámuri Descendant exhibits, Native American Storytelling on November 25th, and Tigua Cultural Heritage Day on November 26th. Please read this issue for additional details.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to you for your continuing support as the Museum moves forward to even greater heights!

Best regards,

Jennifer McCollough

Jen was raised mostly in Nebraska, and earned undergraduate degrees in Anthropology and Political Science from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. She attended the University of Kansas for graduate school, earning an MA in Museum Studies with an emphasis in Anthropology. Most recently she worked as Curatorial Assistant in the Archeology Department at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon, Texas. She enjoys the unique educational position that museums fill, providing hands on experiences that connect people to the objects, individuals and stories of the past. She is an avid reader, a traveler and a connoisseur of zoos in her free time.

PAST EXHIBITIONS

Casas Grandes Pottery and Watercolors From the Tom Lea Collection

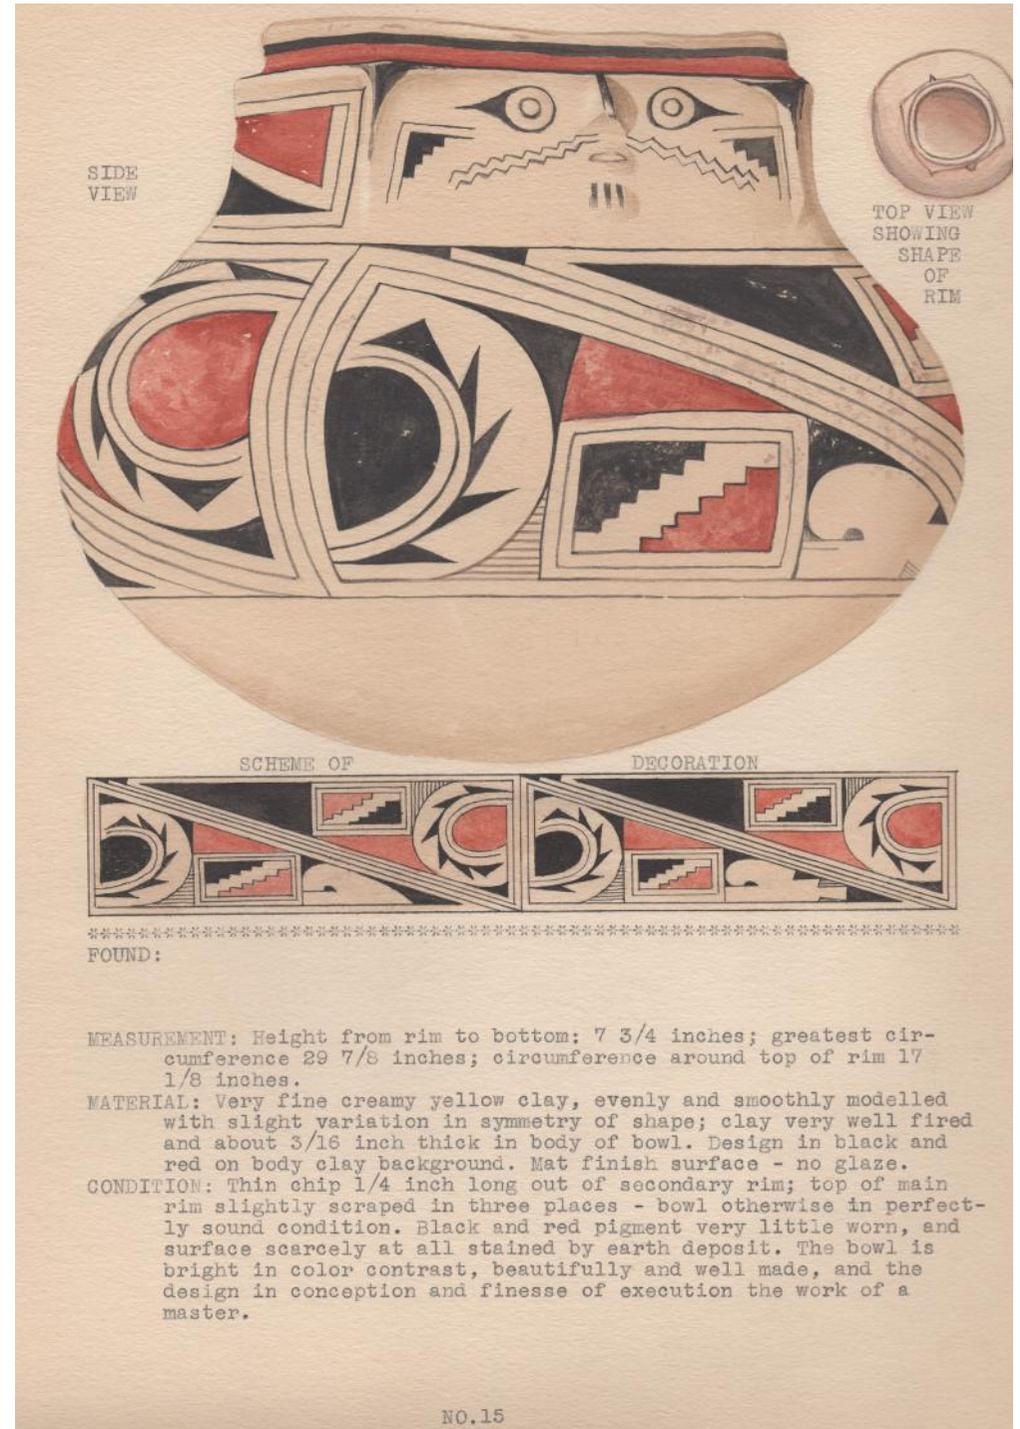

October 1 – 31st, 2017
Auditorium

Tom Lea Sr. acquired a collection of Casas Grandes pottery in the 1920s, which included polychromes and plainwares dating to the Casas Grandes Medio Period (AD 1200 – 1450). According to accounts, noted artist Tom Lea III created a catalog of twenty vessels with painted watercolors and text in 1928. The El Paso Museum of Archaeology and the Tom Lea Institute were proud to present this exhibit of ten ceramic vessels and a sampling of corresponding watercolors in honor of Tom Lea Month and Texas Archeology Month. Jeff Romney, Museum Director also gave a presentation on Casas Grandes pottery on Sunday, October 29th in conjunction with this exhibit.

UPCOMING EXHIBITIONS

Railroad Era Pottery: The Tourist Trade Comes to Isleta Pueblo

From the collection of Albert Alvidrez

November 4, 2017 – February 24, 2018

North Gallery

The establishment of the first of the famous Harvey Houses along the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Railroad in 1876 opened the American Southwest to a level of tourism that had never been seen before in the region. Fred Harvey was an innovative restaurateur and marketer who is not only credited with creating the first restaurant chain in the United States, but was also a leader in promoting tourism in the American Southwest in the late 19th century until around 1920. He further boosted tourism for the Native American Peoples through his organization of excursions to the native villages, creating demand for pottery and other commodities. New contacts established during this period had a clear effect on indigenous material culture that would help to shape native identities through pottery into the modern period.

This exhibit is brought to you from the collection of Albert Alvidrez, the former governor of the Ysleta Del Sur Pueblo and an avid collector of Railroad Era Isleta Pottery. A skilled potter himself, Mr. Alvidrez has been building his collection over the last 25 years. Join us for a unique look at the transition of Pueblo pottery from utilitarian pieces to pottery that was created for strictly artistic ends.

Mis Pensamientos: Visions on Canvas
The Art of Maria Ibarra, a Rarámuri Descendant

November 4, 2017 – February 24, 2018
Auditorium

The El Paso Museum of Archaeology is pleased to present its first fine arts exhibition with works by Maria Ibarra, a descendant of the Rarámuri (Tarahumara) people. These paintings represent the Rarámuri's daily life, highlighting their unique culture and identity and their close relationship with their territory, the majestic mountains of southwest Chihuahua, Mexico.

Maria, whose paternal grandfather was Rarámuri, has worked with several art and cultural institutions in the community, including the El Paso Museum of Art. Through her art, she draws attention to the social issues faced by the Rarámuri, sharing her thoughts and giving the Rarámuri a voice to communicate to a wider audience.

20TH BIENNIAL JORNADA MOGOLLON ARCHAEOLOGY CONFERENCE

The Museum hosted the 20th Biennial Jornada Mogollon Archaeology Conference October 13th - 14th, 2017, which was sponsored by the Museums and Cultural Affairs Department, El Paso Archaeological Society and the El Paso County Historical Commission. Ninety professional archaeologists, amateur archaeologists, professors and students from four states and two nations attended this year's conference, representing the highest attendance of the past three gatherings. The Museum would like to thank an anonymous donor for sponsoring 10 registrations for members of the Native American community.

The conference had 28 presenters including three from Escuela de Antropología e Historia del Norte de México (EAHNM) who attended for the very first time. UTEP student and EPMArch student intern Sasha Piña also presented at the conference.

EPMArch hosted a dinner on Friday, October 13th for 78 of the conference participants. This was the first time the new gazebo structure had been used for official purposes.

STAY CONNECTED AND BETTER INFORMED!

We encourage all EPMArch members to "Like" us on Facebook to get the latest news and up-to-date information on what is happening at the Museum at www.Facebook.com/EPMArch/. We update information daily, which makes this an ideal way for members to stay connected and better informed! For those who do not use Facebook, we offer email notifications. 40TH ANNIVERSARY FAMILY DAY CELEBRATION!

The evening and views of the mountains were spectacular! The El Paso Museum of Archaeology (EPMArch) opened its doors for the first time on October 12, 1977 during the administration of Mayor Don Henderson. Over the past four decades an estimated 1,200,000 people have visited EPMArch, with 26,700 attending last fiscal year alone. On Sunday, October 15th, the Museum celebrated its 40th Anniversary with a free Family Day event from 12:00 PM – 4:00 PM with Tigua and Mexican folk dancers, archery, hands-on activities, films and food truck vendors. 209 people attended the event including Mario Parra, Bert Saldaña, and Gloria Rakocy (representing the late Bill Rakocy) who were involved in painting the Museum's original dioramas and artwork panels in 1976-77.

INTERNATIONAL ARCHAEOLOGY DAY

EPMArch celebrated International Archaeology Day and Texas Archeology Awareness Month on Saturday, October 21st, 2017 with archery, mock excavations, plastic pottery making, films and a pottery firing demonstration conducted by Bill Luther! The Museum would like to thank the Council of Texas Archeologists for funding this event!

Bill Luther

UPCOMING EDUCATION EVENTS

Native American Storytelling

The Museum is pleased to host a Native American storytelling event on Saturday, November 25th, 2017 from 5:00 PM – 7:30 PM with Alex Mares who will share Coyote and other stories from his cultural background, which includes Diné, Pueblo, Jicotec and Spanish.

These types of stories are traditionally shared in winter by Navajo, Pueblo and Apache tribes. This free event will be outdoors around a campfire so please dress warmly and bring a folding chair if you can. Complimentary hot chocolate will be served.

Tigua Cultural Heritage Day 2017

On Sunday, November 26th, 2017 from 10:00 AM – 3:00 PM the El Paso Museum of Archaeology and the Tigua Indian Cultural Center will celebrate Native American Heritage Month with our second annual Tigua Cultural Heritage Day. This day of free activities will include archery and atl-atl demonstrations, Tigua dances, Tigua bread and chili sampling, films, hands-on workshops and vendor booths.

The Tigua of Ysleta Del Sur Pueblo are descendants of refugees from the Río Abajo or lower Rio Grande pueblos who were forced to march south to El Paso with the Spanish during the Pueblo Revolt of 1680. The settlement established for them was named Ysleta Del Sur, or Ysleta of the South, to distinguish it from their former home in Isleta, New Mexico, near what is now Albuquerque.

2018 EPMArch Lecture Series

The Museum's very popular lecture series will continue in 2018! The 2018 EPMArch Lecture Series will feature presentations from at least 12 experts in their fields through December. We are excited to provide this opportunity for our members and visitors to learn about ongoing research through this series.

Saturday, January 13th, 2018 – 2:00 PM

Please join us for a presentation by artist Maria Ibarra in conjunction with Mis Pensamientos: Visions on Canvas - The Art of Maria Ibarra, a Rarámuri Descendant

Saturday, February 3rd, 2018 – 2:00 PM

Chilies and Cuisines in the Ancient Southwest and Northern Mexico by Paul Minnis, Ph.D. Seating is limited and is on a first come, first served basis.

Saturday, March 10th, 2018 – 2:00 PM

Fabiola Silva who will discuss the early potters of Mata Ortiz. Seating is limited and is on a first come, first served basis.

Details on lectures from April - December 2018 are coming soon!

2018 EPMArch Spring Break Camp

Spend Spring Break participating in hands-on archaeological activities! EPMArch Spring Break Camp for kids ages 7-11 will be held March 13-16, 2018. Come and experience what archaeologists do, recreate ancient technology, and learn about how science and art inform us about people, past and present. $55 for members, $70 for non-members. For more information, please contact Jen McCollough, Community Engagement Coordinator at (915) 755-4332 or by email at McColloughJR@elpasotexas.gov

Volunteers

Volunteers are critical to the Museum's mission of education. Whether you have a lot or just a little time to give, the Museum has volunteer opportunities for you! From leading tours as a docent or gardening to helping with crafts at a special event, we can find something that fits your schedule and interests. If you are a current volunteer, Jen would love to meet you, learn about your interests and update your information. If you are interested in becoming a docent or volunteer, please contact Jen McCollough, Community Engagement Coordinator at (915) 755-4332 or at McColloughJR@elpasotexas.gov.

Hands-on Archery and Atl atl Demonstrations

Since July of 2014 the Museum, in cooperation with the local chapter of the Society for Creative Anachronism's local chapter, the Citadel of the Southern Pass, has offered a free archery and atl atl instruction program. Starting from about a dozen attendees, the program has grown to host 60 to 80 attendees of all ages and skill levels each Saturday (weather permitting) with 4,500 participants since September 2016 alone! Come on out and try your hand at shooting a bow or launching an atl atl dart. It's a lot of fun and it's a great opportunity to get outdoors! The Museum would like to thank James Volker for volunteering his time and for coordinating this program.

Education Mission/Vision

Museums play a unique role in the education field. Our collections allow us to provide hands on experiences that create a real, tangible connection to the past and more meaningful lessons for today. To fulfill this unique role, we intend to expand the types of education programming that we offer as well as the groups and individuals we reach. Without sacrificing entertainment, we will increase the educational components of our programming. We intend to offer a wider range of topics, especially in the form of workshops that will interest a wider range of audiences. Museums are not just for school groups, anymore! If you have an archaeology related skill or interest, please let us know, and we will work to connect you to volunteer opportunities or programming!
