MESSAGE FROM MUSEUM DIRECTOR

Dear Members and Friends:

The spring and summer months tend to be our busiest time at the Museum as we welcome thousands of El Pasoans and visiting tourists alike. It is a joy to speak with people from all over the world as they stop in to learn more about the archaeological past of the Greater Southwest and Mexico.

Part of our mission is to interpret our permanent collection through exhibits. Last spring I asked Museum staff to consider items from the permanent collection as we planned exhibits for 2018. In March, we were proud to open Casas Grandes Resurgence: Early Potters of Mata Ortiz and Children of the Hisatsinom: The Art of the Hopi, both of which feature items from the collection on display for the very first time. I invite you to see these exhibits soon if you have not had a chance to do so already.

Another part of our mission is to provide educational opportunities through camps, classes, lectures and other activities. Each Saturday (weather permitting), we offer a free archery activity which served thousands of enthusiasts last year. We also offer a lecture each month featuring experts in their field. Last year 500 people attended our lecture series, which provided an opportunity to learn more about archaeology, history, and Native American culture. Summer Camps for kids ages 7-12 are just around the corner too which you will not want to miss! Please read this issue for additional details on all of these programs. We depend heavily on memberships to fund the cost of exhibitions, camps, classes, lectures and our other public programs. I invite each of you to talk to your friends and family about your Museum. Bring them with you the next time you visit and invite them to join as members. It is truly through your ongoing support and generosity that we are able to fund our future. You make a difference and for that, we thank you!

Sincerely,

Jeff Romney
Director, El Paso Museum of Archaeology

MESSAGE FROM MCAD DIRECTOR

Dear Members:

Please join me in congratulating the El Paso Museum of Archaeology and National Border Patrol Museum for another successful Poppies Festival held on March 31st. The festival, now in its twelfth year, was attended by 3,000 visitors, many of whom experienced the museums for the first time. Each visitor had the opportunity to learn more about our region through archaeology, history, nature and our local wildlife. I would also like to thank my team at the Museums and Cultural Affairs Department (MCAD) for their assistance in planning and coordinating this event.

I am pleased to share with you that the City of El Paso completed more upgrades to the new gazebo structure in April. A new wall was installed, in order to mitigate erosion, and stairs were installed at the rear of the area of the structure, in order to allow for safe and convenient access to the archery field below. These amenity enhancements, funded by Quality of Life bonds, allow us to provide enhanced programming to the community, develop further appreciation for our diverse cultural heritage and further expand visitor opportunities to enjoy the natural beauty of our region.

We will also begin additional capital improvements to the Museum soon. The Museum will be closed to the public from mid-September to early November 2018 for construction. The project will improve our restrooms and parking lot to ensure ADA compliance. We will also install additional emergency exits in the galleries and the collection storage space will be expanded. These upgrades to the facility will support our mission of serving all sectors of the public with enhanced visitor amenities.

I am pleased to share with you that El Paso has been selected to host the 2019 Texas Associations of Museums (TAM) Annual Meeting. The event will be hosted in April 2019 at the El Paso Museum of Art. The event is the largest gathering of museum professionals in Texas, with over 400 attendees, representing a wide array of museum disciplines. As the host city, El Paso provides unique perspectives and a strong platform for museum professionals to have meaningful discussions about issues facing communities such as diversity, inclusiveness, and outreach. Workshop topics ranging from collections management to outreach and development, as well as sessions for trustees and administrators, will be offered. There will also be opportunities to explore the Downtown Arts District and museums located throughout the region, including the Museum of Archaeology.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to you for your continued support and I look forward to seeing you in the galleries and on the trails soon!

Warm regards,

Tracey Jerome, MS, MA

CURRENT EXHIBITIONS

Casas Grandes Resurgence: The Early Potters of Mata Ortiz

Through June 23, 2018
Auditorium

The contemporary Mata Ortiz pottery renaissance began as an effort by villagers to replicate ancient Casas Grandes ceramic vessels. As time went on, the style evolved as potters began to include technical and aesthetic advances. Mastery of the craft and the styles of individual artists has led to a departure from traditional forms by some, creating the contemporary expression that is characteristic of Mata Ortiz pottery today. The exhibition is comprised of portraits of many of the early potters and participants of trade in the antiquities market and is taken from the work of Fabiola Silva, archaeologist, and Sterling Trantham, documentary photographer. The exhibit also features pieces from the Museum's own collection of early Mata Ortiz pottery as well as the groundbreaking work of Diego Valles, a member of the next generation of Mata Ortiz potters.

Mata Ortiz pottery (ca. 1970's)

Master Potter Diego Valles conducted a pottery firing demonstration for the opening of Casas Grandes Resurgence: The Early Potters of Mata Ortiz on March 3rd. Mr. Valles lives and works in the village of Mata Ortiz, Chihuahua, Mexico.

Hopi pottery (1940's and 1991)

Children of the Hisatsinom: The Art of the Hopi

Through August 31, 2018
North Gallery

Since ancient times the Hopi people, or Hopituh Shi-nu mu (the peaceful people) have lived in the Southwest, maintaining their sacred covenant with Maasaw, the keeper of the earth, living as peaceful farmers who are respectful of the land and its resources. Descendants of the Ancestral Pueblo peoples, the Hopi continue to live following many of the old traditions that have been passed down for generations. The purpose of this exhibit is to showcase the many arts that the Hopi use to communicate elements of their culture and traditions to a wider audience. From basketry to pottery to the carving of beautiful katsina dolls, the Hopi continue to express their deep, rich history through the creative works of their artisans.

The Missions of El Paso Del Norte

Through 2019
South Gallery

The Spanish Mission system was intended to 'settle' Native Americans, converting them to Catholicism and implementing other aspects of Spanish culture. The relationship between Spanish clergy and military was close; missions and fortified military bases known as presidios were established in close proximity and soldiers were used to locate and return individuals who fled from the missions. Following their escape and arrival in the area, the survivors of the Pueblo Revolt of 1680 began settling and building missions and presidios. The Mission exhibit presents the brief history of each of the missions and the presidio at San Elizario and features various objects recovered from the excavations at the original Socorro Mission site. These objects are graciously on loan from Mr. Joe Ledesma, former owner of the property where the Mission once stood.

Spring Break Camp
March 2018

2018 SPRING BREAK AND SUMMER CAMPS

At this year's Spring Break Camp, we pioneered a new, revamped formula. With more in-depth activities that looked at the science and tools of archaeology, campers got to experience a wider variety of archaeological activities, from field to lab. Using Google Maps, 3D photos and new building materials, the kids examined mapping, scale, site location, and a variety of ancient engineering questions. Other activities included obsidian sourcing, the symbolism of rock imagery, and a discussion of desert adaptations. Mock excavations and trying out the atlatl were as popular as ever. We will continue to introduce new activities, and new versions of old favorites, in this year's Summer Day Camps. Our goal is to give campers an idea of the breadth of archaeological science and the new discoveries that are made all the time!

Summer Camps will be held June 19-23 and July 24-27 for kids ages 7-12. Space is limited to 12 participants for each camp. $55 for members, $70 for non-members. To register or for more information please contact Jen McCollough, Community Engagement Coordinator at (915) 755-4332 or at McColloughJR@elpasotexas.gov or visit our website at archaeology.elpasotexas.gov

12TH ANNUAL POPPIES FESTIVAL

The El Paso Museum of Archaeology and the City's Museums and Cultural Affairs Department organized and hosted the 12th Annual Poppies Festival on Saturday, March 31st, 2018. Spring in the Franklin Mountains means the desert landscape is often accented with Golden Mexican Poppies and this festival celebrated El Paso's annual bloom.

An estimated 3,000 individuals of all ages also enjoyed live performances, Tigua dances, vendor booths, educational exhibits, children's activities, nature tours, and Houdini, the hawk from the El Paso Zoo. We are happy to report that every dog and cat brought by Animal Services found their forever home through adoption!

We would like to thank the Museums and Cultural Affairs Department, Parks and Recreation Department, National Border Patrol Museum, Border Patrol Agents, Border Patrol Explorers, Destination El Paso, Downtown Art and Farmers Market, El Paso Live - Cohen Stadium, El Paso Zoo, West Valley Fire Department, Franklin Mountains Wilderness Coalition, Citadel of the Southern Pass, Apache Sign and Barricades, Texas Parks and Wildlife, Ysleta Del Sur Pueblo, Tigua Dancers, TxDOT, and the many volunteers who helped make this event possible.

MUSEUM DIRECTOR ATTENDS TEXAS HERITAGE RESPONDER TRAINING

Museum of Archaeology Director Jeff Romney is participating in Texas Heritage Responder training to learn how museums and cultural institutions can recover from disasters.

Recent natural disasters around Texas and the gulf region prompted the scheduling of a workshop to train museum and other professionals dealing with cultural heritage archives and collections on how to handle such emergencies. The first session was held at the Bayou Bend Collection & Gardens - Museum of Fine Arts in Houston this past January. Many of Houston's cultural institutions were hit hard by Hurricane Harvey.

Romney is one of 30 people from across the state and the only person in far west Texas, participating in this course sponsored by the Foundation of the American Institute for Conservation of Historic and Artistic Works (AIC) and made possible by a grant from The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. Once the course work is complete, he may be called to respond to disasters across the state and the nation to help cultural institutions protect their assets from further damage.

The Bayou Bend Collection & Gardens - Museum of Fine Arts in Houston is still recovering from the damage it sustained during Hurricane Harvey. This is just one of the dehumidifiers the museum is using to mitigate the effects of the storm.

MUSEUM TO CLOSE TEMPORARILY FOR CONSTRUCTION OF MUSEUM IMPROVEMENTS

We will begin additional capital improvements to the Museum soon with Quality of Life bonds passed by voters in 2012. The Museum will be closed to the public from September 9th to November 16th, 2018 for construction including the EPAS Lab and the parking lot. The project will improve our restrooms and parking lot to ensure ADA compliance. We will also install additional emergency exits in the galleries and the collection storage space will be expanded. These upgrades to the facility will support our mission of serving all sectors of the public with enhanced visitor amenities.
